

RBS care: Qualified credit card invoicing thanks to detailed business travel information

RBS care supports financial service firms and other companies in the efficient billing of credit cards in general and lodged cards in particular. For this, RBS care collects travel information – such as the route, the traveller and booking class – from different systems, linking it with the financial transaction data from the lodged card. Via interfaces to a variety of travel industry service providers, RBS care allows credit card companies to provide their customers access to the latest and highest quality information on all transactions.

All travel data at a glance

Credit cards, nowadays used in most industrial enterprises for arranging business travel, offer significant advantages for processing and invoicing. But besides the pure financial transaction data, they reveal only minimal travel-specific data. But this is exactly where credit card providers can distinguish themselves from their competitors: With RBS care they gain access to extensive business travel information and can provide their customers higher quality and more detailed billing information. Existing business processes remain unaffected – or are further supported by RBS care.

„During our selection process, as well as in the continuing project, travelbasys has shown that they can perfectly meet our standards of quality, data security and customer focus. As part of the joint project, travelbasys' responsibility is to consolidate the data from various tourism service providers and systems with the financial transaction data of Degussa Bank.“

This means significantly more transparency for companies in their credit card statements, and thus facilitates controlling travel costs and managing travel budgets, especially because the additional information allows sorting according to internal criteria and terminology. Whether SMEs, global corporations or individual entrepreneurs with complicated credit card statements – through RBS care, all organizations benefit from an overview of their incurred travel expenses.
